No. of Students: 35

On 8th August, 2021 SST College of Arts & Commerce arranged a distribution of kit to Mumbai dabbawalas to honor their work, they are considered as an essential part of the life of Mumbai.

Before starting with the distribution, there was speech by our honorable principal Dr. J.C. Purswani who addressed everyone present for distribution process to appreciate Mumbai Dabbawala's , the one who are dressed in a traditional white outfit and wearing the traditional Gandhi Cap, how around 5000 Mumbai Dabbawala deliver home cooked food to Mumbaikar every day. They are the people who make sure that 2,00,000 people get their lunch on time at their offices or schools every day from home. Their operations are so efficient that world personalities like Prince Charles and Richard Brad stone have visited them. They have been invited to lectures at business schools. They are even said to be six sigma compliant.

After this appreciative speech, Mr. Dilip Ahuja (District Field Coordinator), Extension teachers & DLLE students distributed kit to around 200 Dabbawalas residing in Ulhasnagar, Ambernath, Badlapur areas. The kit includes food grains, groceries.

Earn & Learn Activity- Hatri Making And Selling

No. of Students: 28

Earn and Learn Activity was arranged by DLLE unit, SST College of Arts and Commerce under which Hatri selling activity was arranged for the students. The 'hatri', as it is popularly called, finds its mention in the Diwali tale that is narrated during the puja. It hence forms an important part in Diwali rituals.

Firstly, students learned how to make the Hatri with the help of LEELABEN HATRI VENDOR. Then students practiced and got to know about the skill of hatri making. Students prepared hatri to sell them to celebrate Diwali

After preparing the hatri, students sold them to students of SST College of Arts & Commerce and also to the general public. The profit earned from it was donated to YASH FOUNDATION. Thus, it creates a sense of responsibility among the students towards society and students' skill enhancement also leads to self-sufficiency.

No Pollution Day in Association with NGO Swachgiri Foundation

No. of Students: 40

The DLLE unit of the SST College of Arts and Commerce organized an event on No Pollution Day in association with NGO Swachgiri Foundation. It was organised to create awareness about the environmental pollution. One of the most important issues of our time is environmental pollution, which includes soil, water, air, and noise pollution. Pollution has a wide range of negative effects on ecosystems, human health, and general quality of life. On No Pollution Day, the need of reducing pollution in all its manifestations is emphasized, and it is urged that people, communities, and governments take proactive steps to address this problem.

Our students conducted a Street Play for creating awareness about environmental pollution and the measures to control the pollution. No Pollution Day is a day set aside to raise awareness of the pressing need to combat pollution and its detrimental impacts on both our environment and our health. We can help create a world that is cleaner, healthier, and more sustainable for both current and future generations by banding together and taking effective action to minimize pollution.
